THE CATHOLIC PRESS.

The Catholic paper is a Catholic institution—which the daily is not. The Catholic paper voices, in its editorial page, Catholic opinion—which the daily does not. The Catholic paper makes it a business to correct misrepresentations of Catholic doctrine, to defend Catholic rights, to promote Catholic interests—which secular papers do not and can not do. The Catholic paper is a Catholic truth society in itself; it goes into a hundred secular newspaper offices, where it silently, but effectively, dissolves bigotry by the light of its information and the vigor of its tone. When Catholics are attacked by new movements of bigotry, what is the fear and anxiety of their defense? The Catholic paper. When Catholics are ignored, or inadequately recognized in public matters, what is the medium of protest? The Catholic paper. What cultivates among Catholics the proper interest in Catholic news, events and doctrines? The Catholic paper. There are but a few instances pointed out by an observant writer of the importance to us of our own press. We must stand by the papers which stand by us. This is a matter of public duty—which, he who shirks confesses to his delinquency in public spirit and in decent patriotism. It is a matter of principle—part and parcel of the sound policy of counting yourself cheerfully with your class and your creed in all its common enterprises and necessary defenses.

DROP THE BILL.

The Irish bill recently introduced in the House of Commons was dropped by the Government last Monday with but scant ceremony. The announcement was made by Campbell-Bannerman.

"I believe," said the Premier, "that the Irish people would have done well to have given the details of the measure greater attention than appears to have been the case at the recent convention. But in view of the announcement of the leader of the Irish party in the House of Commons that he would abide by the decision of the convention to reject the bill, the Government can not, of course, go any further with it."

The Premier added that the decision of the representatives of the Irish people was a source of sincere regret and disappointment to the Ministers, but now that the Irish bill was dropped the Government intended to introduce during the present session an "evicted tenant's restoration bill" with power of compulsory purchase. Regarding the long-promised attempt to restrict the power of the House of Lords, the Premier said that so soon as they had made a little further progress he proposed to introduce a resolution on the subject, when the Government would fully state its views on the matter.

COGHAN RETIRED.

Joseph Bullock Cogan, Rear Admiral, United States navy, who fought in the battle of Manila Bay, and gave to the world "Hoeh der Kaiser," the most famous poem ever emanating from the American navy, severed his active connection last Saturday with the service in which he had passed forty-five years of his life. Shortly after 10 o'clock the saluting squad on the receiving ship Hancock, in the New York navy yard, began firing the Rear Admiral's salute of thirteen guns, in honor of the retiring Commandant of the yard. As the report of the last gun died away the pennant of Admiral Cogan came down and up went that of Rear Admiral Caspar Frederick Goodrich. In leaving Admiral Cogan walked down the line of officers and shook each one by the hand, wishing each the best of luck and a long and creditable career in the service that he himself was leaving forever. The Admiral had decided to make New York his future home, and he assured them that he expected to see them often in the future, both at the yard and at his home in Manhattan.

"We never had a Commandant that we did not hate to see go," said the old-time porter who stands guard at the door leading to the Commandant's office, "but I don't think we ever hated to see any of them go quite so badly as we do Admiral Cogan. He is a prize every inch of him, and the best fellow ever."

Our esteemed and friendly contemporary, the Evening Post, noting the retirement of Thomas F. Ryan from business and his ambition to become a United States Senator, says "he evidently has determined to do nothing for the rest of his days." The Post has no reason or authority for such an assertion, as Thomas Ryan is one of those men who are ever active, and always for good, while physically able.

Lebenon went dry, with the result that the people are now notified that they must pay more taxes hereafter. Thus history repeats itself. The good people there are already convinced that prohibition does not prohibit. Prohibition and drunkenness are drawbacks to any progressive town, the only really successful ones being those wherein the temperance principle prevails and accords equal rights to all.

That Hon. A. E. Willson will be the Republican nominee for Governor is no longer doubted. That he is the strongest candidate that party could present is each day becoming more apparent. Many of the old Republicans who left the party years ago will return to vote for him, and the Democrats will be compelled to exert themselves to win.

Richard Croker, now residing in Ireland, declared Wednesday that he had no intention of giving up his American citizenship in order to become an Irish Nationalist member of the British Parliament, to which he could be easily elected. The old Tammany leader wants to visit New York this fall and expects to die an American.

Next to the Taft boom the Knox boom is the most promising in the Republican list just now, and the discovery that it is to be reckoned with seriously has led to much ill-informed talk about well meaning persons that is giving the Republican leaders considerable trouble.

Edward Blake, the ex-Canadian Minister of Justice and now Nationalist member of Parliament for the South Division for Longford, was stricken with paralysis in London last Saturday. He passed a good night and has since been progressing satisfactorily.

NEXT YEAR

Hierarchy of Mexico To Conduct Great Pilgrimage to Rome.

The Mexican hierarchy, with the Archbishop of Mexico at its head, is reported to be organizing a great pilgrimage to Rome on the occasion of the sacerdotal jubilee of Pope Pius X., which will be celebrated next year. The pilgrimage will leave Mexico early next May, and one of its first acts, upon its arrival in Rome, will be the holding of a special function at the church of St. Nicholas, where the image of the Virgin of Guadalupe is venerated. The pilgrimage, which will be composed of archbishops, bishops, priests and many of the laity, will spend some time in Spain, where nearly all the principal cities of that country will be visited. The pilgrimage will also be extended to Lourdes, Paray-le-Monial, Monserrat and several other points in Europe where shrines exist. Local boards of the republic for the purpose of presenting the matter in a proper way to the people, as it is the intention of those in charge of the pilgrimage to have everything thoroughly organized. Archbishop Silva of Michoacan is one of the leaders in the movement, and the names of the Bishops of Zamora, Queretaro, Leon, Sonora and Chihuahua have also been mentioned in connection with it.

REVERE HIS MEMORY.

Monday night Branch 25, Catholic Knights of America, met at St. John's Hall, Clay and Walnut, with President William Meehan presiding, and after the usual business the committee appointed at the preceding meeting, Messrs. WHITE CITY.

One of the biggest novelties of the season will be Cora Youngblood Corson's band of thirty-five women, which will be heard in the two daily concerts at the White City all of next week. This is one of the most noted organizations in the country, and as this will be its first appearance in Louisville much interest has been aroused.

There will also be six big free shows at the White City next week. The skating rink has cut its price of admission, including skates, from twenty-five to fifteen cents, and the management has inaugurated a popularity contest for the best and most graceful skaters which is proving very interesting. The big new dancing pavilion on the river front west of the Board walk, has been completed and is open to the public every afternoon and evening except Sunday.

Prof. Rice's dog, pony and monkey show has been re-engaged for next week, and will be one of the free attractions. It is announced that negotiations are now on for the biograph films of the Oberammergau "Passion Play." This will be one of the genuine novelties of the season, if they can be secured.

FORESTERS' CONVENTION.

William F. Krull, to whose efforts is largely due the introduction into Kentucky of the Catholic Order of Foresters, will leave today to attend the State convention which meets next Tuesday and continues for three days at Canton, Ohio. Kentucky at present is included in the Ohio jurisdiction, but delegate Krull says that owing to the number of courts that have been established the State will be raised to a separate district. The next convention of the Foresters will be a flourishing one in this city that meets regularly at St. Boniface Hall.

First Since Disastrous Fire Destroyed St. Catherine's Academy.

The first meeting of the alumnae of St. Catherine's Academy, near Springfield, since the disastrous fire of three years ago, will be held there on June 18. Mother Magdalene, the Directress of the academy, has extended a cordial invitation to the past pupils and graduates and would be delighted to have them assemble there on that occasion, as a large gathering of the members is hoped for. St. Catherine's new academy is now complete and the future of this time honored and historic educational institution is brighter than ever. The Louisville members and those from a distance are requested to be at Springfield on Monday, June 17, as the meeting will be called the next morning. A warm welcome has been promised each and every one.

FLAMES

Destroy Texas Church Built Before Pilgrim Fathers Landed.

Built before the Pilgrim fathers landed on Plymouth Rock, and used continually from that time until a few days ago, the Catholic church at Ysleta, Texas, has been destroyed by a fire which is said to have been started by the candles burning before the altar. The destruction was complete, only a few relics of great antiquity being saved through the heroic efforts of Father Cordova and his congregation. The old church was built of adobe—mud dried in the form of bricks—and was in the form of a cross. Seven acres of ground were enclosed with the building by an adobe wall, over which grapevines clustered profusely.

LEXINGTON.

Thomas Collins, who for the greater part of his life was an employee of the Lexington City Government, died at his home there last Friday after an illness of several months. He was sixty-eight years old, and came to Lexington from Ireland, where he was born, when about twenty years old. He soon found employment as a policeman, in which capacity he served many years. After his retirement from the police force he was given employment in other departments of the city government, and had practically never been engaged in any other business. "Uncle Tom," as he was best known in recent years, was a typical Irishman and was famous for his ready wit and ability as a story-teller. He was a personal acquaintance of nearly every citizen of Lexington and one of the widely known characters of the city. He is survived by his wife and four children—Miss Josie Collins, of Jeffersonville, Ind.; Miss Maggie Collins and Mrs. Pratt Neal, of Cincinnati; and Cornelius J. Collins, of Lexington.
